

March 1, 2, & 3, Push, Push, Push, take a deep breath and push some more - Nope, no babies - just pushing a snow shovel. Wow, March came in like a lion, didn't it? The rain and ice made pushing the shovel easier than flinging it. Also makes for challenging walking - as we all know!

Bruce had been on "snow detail" since the snow started on Thursday. He went out a few times during the snowfall to try to keep the yard open to the barn and pastures. We both came home from work early Thursday. Neither of us went in on Friday. Appears to be somewhere between 12" & 14" of snow in our yard from the latest snow fall - just like many of you we are sure. Lightening and thunder always seem so strange when it is snowing. Thankfully, it really wasn't very cold out during all this as our electricity went out several times.

River managed to hurt himself during all the weather. He's limping a little on his right rear leg. Wondering if he slid on the ice too? He does get riled up from time to time especially when the snowmobiles go by. We are buting him and will watch him very closely. If he does not seem to improve, it will be doctor time.

All the other "kids" are doing well. Jasmine is looking better all the time. She is antsy to go outside but we told her not on this ice. Cookie really doesn't care about being inside as long as she can have her window open. Montana loves to sick his head in her window and visit.

We are updating several things on our website. There will be new pictures of the horses. Montana will have his own page very shortly. Our webmaster takes care of our website on a volunteer basis between caring for her animals, working, and starting her web design business. Anyone needing a website done, please drop Jeanne an email to see if she can help you.

We have added a calendar to our website and invite you to check it out. With the town festivals coming up, it is fun to post these events. We will be going to the Lewisville Fun Daze parade in June and adding other dates as they come up. Summer is a very busy time for us. We take the van through area parades and also set up our display tent at nearby town festivals to promote the Sanctuary. We offer merchandise for sale as part of our fundraising. We will be offering some new Cupid & Arrow plush figures this year and we have also added a Spiral Wishing Well. Our scrapbook of all the "kids" is also available for all to view. And please sign our guestbook to be added to our newsletter listings.

Recycling programs are going beautifully!! We have sent in 7 boxes of 20 oz pop bottles so far. The inkjet "baggie" program is a wonderful help. Anyone interested in collecting recyclables for Misfit Acres, please email me. The recyclers are making this as easy and convenient as they can so anyone can participate with no postage costs. All proceeds go directly to Misfit Acres. Before you throw that item away, please check our website under "recycling for horses". We are always searching for additional items to recycle for funding.

Better wrap this up for now! Thanks for reading our March update. As always, if you would like to visit the Sanctuary, please feel free to give us a call!!
